Oral health is important, and a regular dental care routine and dental examinations not only keep smiles bright and beautiful – they can boost a person’s general health, since current research indicates a strong relationship between inflammatory gum disease – and even cavities – and diseases such as diabetes, heart disease and pneumonia. Proposed topics:

- REGULAR CHECKUPS – From examinations and personalized treatment plans to additional services.
- INNOVATION – Advances in oral health products and services.
- EDUCATION – Canada’s leading dentistry schools and professional development.
- ADVICE – Recommendations for Canadians of all ages, from children to seniors..
