EDITORIAL FEATURES

- How Canada's mines can lead the world Many Canadian-based mining companies have operations in some of the most dangerous places on earth, so not surprisingly, a lot can go wrong. Their mines can displace indigenous peoples, poison the local water supply, and their security teams can terrorize the locals. How can this be stopped? This story will look at two interesting developments that could take us one step closer to ensuring that Canadian mining operations in developing countries are safe, environmentally sustainable and respect the human rights of locals.
- Stepping Up: Meet Canada's next business leaders This new addition to The Globe's ongoing "Stepping Up" series will profile the business leaders of tomorrow. Each surprising and heartwarming story will introduce you to an amazing young Canadian who is already demonstrating that he or she has the right stuff to take Canadian business to the next level.
