Colleges and institutes across the country have an essential role to play in Canada's recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic. Whether it's by helping unemployed Canadians up-skill and get back to work or supporting local SMEs to adapt their business and/or products, they help their communities thrive. This special feature, produced in collaboration with Colleges and Institutes Canada, highlights the efforts of colleges and institutes to support student success, maximize learning and employment opportunities, and positively impact their communities in these challenging times.

Proposed topic highlights:

SKILLS – Helping Canadians reskill and/or upskill to reintegrate in the new labour market

INNOVATION – Working with industry to help them respond to a changed marketplace through research and development

PARTNERSHIPS – Boosting student outcomes via industry and community collaborations
